Chicago Marathon

0730 Sunday 7th October

Trying to complete all the Abbott Marathon majors, Seb Parris took on his 5th in the series over the pond in Chicago.

A new event record of 44,571 runners hit the downtown 'loop' headed by the speedy event winner, Mo Farah.

The race began unusually early at 0730 and conditions were cold and wet throughout.

A good recent training cycle due to an ironman event meant Seb was hunting a new marathon PB despite falling a last-minute victim to the dreaded food poisoning less than 48 hours pre-race.

The rain was persistent all morning but so too was Seb's determination. Crossing the line at the city's Grant Park in a 6-minute PB for 03.03.39 (1627th place).

Seb even found the time to stop for a mid-race photo looking very relaxed for someone on their way to achieving a pb.

Pizza pie was eaten afterwards in celebration.
