Anna Crawley powers home for a PB at the Olympic Stadium

The BBC Women's couch to 5K was a free event that allowed athletes entry to the Anniversary games after, and despite the name was open to runners of all abilities. This was a race that Ilford runner Anna Crawley had targeted for a first ever sub 21 minute 5K and a PB.

Setting off at a hard pace, Anna decided to see how long she could hang for. A quick first 2 miles saw Anna on target, and although the pace was beginning to tell she knew if she could push on she could reach her goal.

The final part of the race finishes on the track in the Olympic Stadium, and as Anna entered the stadium she saw the clock getting closer to the 21 minute mark which made her put her foot down for the line.

To Anna's delight she came home in 7th place overall with a time of 20:53, her first Sub 21 and a massive PB.

Two other Ilford ladies took advantage of the opportunity for free entrance to the Anniversary games, Zuzana Sinalova and Nicola Hopkinson.
